General Certificate of Secondary Education

Mark Scheme for June 2015
OCR (Oxford Cambridge and RSA) is a leading UK awarding body, providing a wide range of qualifications to meet the needs of candidates of all ages and abilities. OCR qualifications include AS/A Levels, Diplomas, GCSEs, Cambridge Nationals, Cambridge Technicals, Functional Skills, Key Skills, Entry Level qualifications, NVQs and vocational qualifications in areas such as IT, business, languages, teaching/training, administration and secretarial skills.

It is also responsible for developing new specifications to meet national requirements and the needs of students and teachers. OCR is a not-for-profit organisation; any surplus made is invested back into the establishment to help towards the development of qualifications and support, which keep pace with the changing needs of today’s society.

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and students, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which marks were awarded by examiners. It does not indicate the details of the discussions which took place at an examiners’ meeting before marking commenced.

All examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates’ scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the published question papers and the report on the examination.

OCR will not enter into any discussion or correspondence in connection with this mark scheme.

| (ii) Benefits of PPS:
• easy to edit
• tasks can be organised in manageable chunks
• time can be planned more efficiently/saves time (if justified)
• more than one person can have access/can be made public
• easier to keep costs within budget
• highlight potential problems before they occur
• can be accessed from various locations
• can be backed up or saved onto a computer /more difficult to loose.
Benefits of paper alternative:
• easy to use
• not expensive
• no training required
• no risk of power failure/crashing/virus/losing data, etc.

Question

Answer

Mark

Guidance

- data can be lost
- lots of time project management software wasted using rather than getting on with the task/project
- When many people are able to access and edit a project, mistakes can be made.

Drawbacks of the paper alternative:

- not easy to edit
- May find it difficult to understand/interpret
- not everyone has access
- does not look professional in meetings
- only one person can access at one time
- difficult to organise resources
- Paper could be destroyed or damaged

Example answer

The main benefit of using project planning software in the charity is that tasks can be organised into manageable chunks (L1) this means staff will know exactly what they are doing and will be able to organise themselves making them more efficient (L2). On the other hand there can be a lot of down time in a business as project managers spend a lot of time planning and organising the task rather than actually getting on with it (L1) this can lead to the team not meeting it objectives for the project (L2)

The main benefit of using a paper based system to plan a project is that it is cheaper, no expensive hardware or software has to be purchased (L1) this means that more money can be ploughed into training staff on areas to meet the project’s objectives (L2)

<td>However, the main disadvantage of a paper based system is that it is not easy to edit, if changes need to be made, they could end up looking messy (L1) this can result in a breakdown in communication when planning out what people have to do, this could result in tasks not getting complete (L2) Overall, I believe that the charity should go ahead and purchase the software, it will be expensive to start with, however this is an investment in the business allowing them to work more efficiently (L3), by working more efficiently people are more likely to be more productive and this will result in the objectives of the project being met (L3) in turn this will please the people who have donated to the business as they will see their money being spent wisely and they may be more likely to donate again (L3) Resulting in the charity meeting its overall objectives and helping people to … (L3)</td>
