Mark Scheme for June 2015
OCR (Oxford Cambridge and RSA) is a leading UK awarding body, providing a wide range of qualifications to meet the needs of candidates of all ages and abilities. OCR qualifications include AS/A Levels, Diplomas, GCSEs, Cambridge Nationals, Cambridge Technicals, Functional Skills, Key Skills, Entry Level qualifications, NVQs and vocational qualifications in areas such as IT, business, languages, teaching/training, administration and secretarial skills.

It is also responsible for developing new specifications to meet national requirements and the needs of students and teachers. OCR is a not-for-profit organisation; any surplus made is invested back into the establishment to help towards the development of qualifications and support, which keep pace with the changing needs of today’s society.

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and students, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which marks were awarded by examiners. It does not indicate the details of the discussions which took place at an examiners’ meeting before marking commenced.

All examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates’ scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the published question papers and the report on the examination.

OCR will not enter into any discussion or correspondence in connection with this mark scheme.

Blank Page – this annotation must be used on all blank pages within an answer booklet (structured or unstructured) and on each page of an additional object where there is no candidate response.

Awarding Spelling, Punctuation and Grammar to scripts with a coversheet

1. If a script has a scribe cover sheet it is vital to check which boxes are ticked and award as per the instructions and grid below:
   a. Assess the work for SPaG in accordance with the normal marking criteria. The initial assessment must be made as if the candidate had not used a scribe (or word processor) and was eligible for all the SPaG marks.
   b. Check the cover sheet to see what has been dictated (or what facilities were disabled on the word processor) and therefore what proportion of marks is available to the candidate.
   c. Convert the SPaG mark to reflect the correct proportion using the conversion table given below.

2. If a script has a word processor cover sheet attached to it the candidate can still access SPaG marks (see point 1 above) unless the cover sheet states that the checking functionality is enabled, in which case no SPaG marks are available.

3. If a script has a word processor cover sheet AND a scribe cover sheet attached to it, see point 1 above.

4. If the script has a transcript, Oral Language Modifier, Sign Language Interpreter or a Practical Assistant cover sheet, award SPaG as normal.
AO1 part (d) question

| Level 3 5-6 | A good answer to the question. Candidates will demonstrate a clear understanding of the question.
| | • A fairly complete and full description/explanation/analysis
| | • A comprehensive account of the range/depth of relevant material.
| | • The information will be presented in a structured format
| | • There will be significant, appropriate and correct use of specialist terms.
| | • There will be few if any errors in spelling, grammar and punctuation
| Level 2 3-4 | A satisfactory answer to the question. Candidates will demonstrate some understanding of the question.
| | • Information will be relevant but may lack specific detail
| | • There will be some description/explanation/analysis although this may not be fully developed
| | • The information will be presented for the most part in a structured format
| | • Some use of specialist terms, although these may not always be used appropriately
| | • There may be errors in spelling, grammar and punctuation
| Level 1 1-2 | A weak attempt to answer the question. Candidates will demonstrate little understanding of the question.
| | • A small amount of relevant information may be included
| | • Answers may be in the form of a list with little or no description/explanation/analysis
| | • There will be little or no use of specialist terms
| | • Answers may be ambiguous or disorganised
| | • Errors of grammar, punctuation and spelling may be intrusive
| Level 0 0 | No evidence submitted or response does not address the question. |
AO2 part (e) question

| Level 4 10-12 | A good answer to the question. Candidates will demonstrate a clear understanding of the question.
- Answers will reflect the significance of the issue(s) raised
- Clear evidence of an appropriate personal response, fully supported
- A range of points of view supported by justified arguments/discussion
- The information will be presented in a clear and organised way
- Clear reference to the religion studied
- Specialist terms will be used appropriately and correctly
Few, if any errors in spelling, grammar and punctuation |
| Level 3 7-9 | A competent answer to the question. Candidates will demonstrate a sound understanding of the question.
- Selection of relevant material with appropriate development
- Evidence of appropriate personal response
- Justified arguments/different points of view supported by some discussion
- The information will be presented in a structured format
- Some appropriate reference to the religion studied
- Specialist terms will be used appropriately and for the most part correctly
There may be occasional errors in spelling, grammar and punctuation |
| Level 2 4-6 | A limited answer to the question. Candidates will demonstrate some understanding of the question.
- Some information will be relevant, although may lack specific detail.
- Only one view might be offered and developed
- Viewpoints might be stated and supported with limited argument/discussion
- The information will show some organisation
- Reference to the religion studied may be vague
- Some use of specialist terms, although these may not always be used appropriately
There may be errors in spelling, grammar and punctuation |
| Level 1 1-3 | A weak attempt to answer the question. Candidates will demonstrate little understanding of the question.
- Answers may be simplistic with little or no relevant information
- Viewpoints may not be supported or appropriate
- Answers may be ambiguous or disorganised
- There will be little or no use of specialist terms
Errors of grammar, punctuation and spelling may be intrusive |

Candidates might consider some of the following: It is a way to show submission to Allah as one is following His orders which in turn helps one to be a good Muslim and so enter Paradise. Muslims try to follow the example of The Prophet and since he performed all five pillars then so should all Muslims. It not only strengthens the faith of the individual Muslim but also of the Ummah as most of the pillars are done communally. Following the Five Pillars also means that Allah is never far from their thoughts. Reciting the Shahadah is a constant reminder of their basic beliefs; performing salah means Allah is never far from their thoughts nor the submission they owe Him; when fasting, Muslims are reminded of their duty to Allah and their willingness to totally submit; the giving of zakah is a reminder of a Muslim’s | 6 | |

Question

Responsibility to assist their brothers and sisters and going on Hajj is a sign of great devotion and submission to Allah as well as strengthening the bonds of the worldwide ummah. Whilst on hajj Muslims are also constantly reminded of Allah and past prophets through the remembrance of significant moments.

(e) Examiners should mark according to the AO2 descriptors. Candidates might consider some of the following:

Some might argue that the main purpose of a Muslim’s life is to follow the commands of Allah and in order to do that you have to believe; without belief the duties a Muslim performs lose their meaning. Why follow the Five Pillars if you do not believe in Allah and all his commands? The first pillar and foundation of Islam is belief in Allah and that Muhammad is his final messenger—without this belief one is not a true Muslim.

Without belief in Allah then, the other beliefs in Islam have no foundation.

Some candidates, however, might argue that belief in the Day of Judgement is really the most important belief a Muslim can have as it focuses their mind on the importance of believing in Allah and following his commands as stated in the Quran and exemplified in the Sunnah of The Prophet. Belief in Yawmuddin assumes that one believes in Allah as He will be the judge on that day.

Some might argue that everything a Muslim does in their lives is to please Allah so that on the Day of Judgement they will be rewarded with paradise and not punished.

Some might discuss the view that in times of distress or sorrow it is belief in Allah that really matters; comfort and strength comes from believing and trusting in Allah, not on the belief of a day far in the future.

Others might argue from the standpoint that at the Day of Judgement, all are present before Allah whether you believe or not so believing in it and acting accordingly is the most important belief a Muslim can hold as there is no escaping the Day of Judgement.

Some may do a comparison with other beliefs in Islam like belief in Angels, in the holy book, in prophets and this should be credited where appropriate. Some might suggest that belief in a god or a day of judgement or an afterlife in any form is irrelevant and that what really matters is living a good life.

|          | Attending Friday prayers also helps to keep Muslims in touch with local issues and national issues to do with the Muslim community.

Being in the presence of fellow believers may strengthen an individual Muslims faith and determination to follow the Sunnah of The Prophet. |      |          |
Examiners should mark according to the AO2 descriptors. Candidates might consider some of the following:

Muslims the world over will celebrate the two major Ids: ul-Adha and ul-Fitr. These two festivals bring together the local and the world wide Ummah and unite Muslims wherever they are. They are also a time to remember those who have gone before as well as important moments/events in the faith’s history. In this way, both major Ids are treated equally and shown to be of equal importance to Muslims as they are often seen as a way of encouraging the young to learn more about their faith as well as encouraging them (and others) to display their faith publically. They are also seen as strengthening not just the Ummah but an individual Muslim’s closeness to Allah.

However, these are not the only festivals in Islam and some might argue that this is where the disagreements come in. Many Muslims do not celebrate Mawlid an-Nabi because it is not mentioned in either the Qur'an or the Hadith and it was never celebrated by the early followers of Muhammad.

Others might say that to follow the example of Muhammad and his unswerving obedience to Allah is what is important and that to celebrate his birthday might be seen as conflicting with that.

Some might say that as Id-ul-Adha and Id-ul-Fitr are each connected to one of the Five Pillars then they are obviously more important than any other festival which Muslims may celebrate whether that be Mawlid an-Nabi or Ashurra. Also, these two major Ids were celebrated by The prophet so adding more weight to them than to other festivals.

Some might concentrate upon the two major Ids and look at whether even they are of equal importance. Even though they are both connected to one of the five pillars, one is to do with sacrifice and the other is a reward, so can they be of equal importance?

Some might argue that it would be difficult to treat all festival as of equal importance as some are either only celebrated by one section of the Muslim community or have different interpretations placed upon them.

Others might argue that as all the festivals are part of Islam they should be treated the same, even if not celebrated by all Muslims. They might also ask what it means to be of equal importance.

Lower level responses may just list some of the characteristics of Sufism whilst some may make reference to general practises like regular prayers. Higher level responses will look at how these characteristics help Muslims to feel closer to Allah.
Sufism is often seen as being far less concerned with materialism and worldliness and more concerned with mystical experience and developing the individual's relationship with God. This is often done through the use of dance, | 6 | |

<td>Just like salah and personal prayer is a way of communicating with and praising of Allah, so the methods of Sufism may assist Muslims in getting closer to God. <td>All major world religions have divisions of one sort or another and often these divisions have led to disagreements, disputes and even war. Yet the divisions still exist. Some might argue that it is human nature to disagree, particularly when it is over such important matters as belief in God, how one should live one’s life and the possibility an afterlife. People may have similar beliefs but come from very different cultural backgrounds so may view things differently. This often leads to different practices and interpretations of the same basic beliefs; people feel more comfortable worshipping in a particular way or may have a different perspective on a historical event or religious belief. (Candidates may well give examples from Islam as well as other faiths.) However, some might say that if Muslims all believe in Allah, share the same basic beliefs and aim to follow the Sunnah of The Prophet (the perfect Muslim) then why should there be different interpretations, in fact how there can there be? Others might argue that it is human nature that people from different cultural backgrounds will always view things differently but that does not change the basic truth of the message. Some might argue that as long as there is no strife between believers then having different interpretations of Islam does no harm as</td>
