

Write your name here

Surname

Other names

Pearson
Edexcel GCE

Centre Number

--	--	--	--	--

Candidate Number

--	--	--	--	--

Religious Studies

Advanced

Unit 4: Implications – Buddhism

Wednesday 17 June 2015 – Afternoon

Time: 1 hour 15 minutes

Paper Reference

6RS04/1C

You do not need any other materials.

Total Marks

Instructions

- Use black ink or ball-point pen.
- Fill in the boxes at the top of this page with your name, centre number and candidate number.
- Read the passage carefully.
- Answer BOTH part (a) and part (b) of the question.
- Answer the question in the spaces provided
– there may be more space than you need.

Information

- The total mark for this paper is 50.
- The marks for each question are shown in brackets
– use this as a guide as to how much time to spend on each question.
- Quality of written communication will be taken into account in the marking of all your responses
– you should take particular care with your spelling, punctuation and grammar, as well as the clarity of expression.

Advice

- The assessment of your answers will be based on your knowledge and understanding of the topic in question (for 60% of the marks) and your evaluative skills (for 40% of the marks).

Turn over ►

P44938A

©2015 Pearson Education Ltd.

1/1

PEARSON

Buddhism

Some see the notion of dukkha as indicating a pessimistic outlook. Yet the ideal that the Buddha offers for man in following the ethical system is an ideal of happiness. While nibbana represents the ideal of ultimate happiness for man as a moral ideal, the Buddha also offers a qualified notion of happiness for the householder who lives a harmonious and righteous life. Just as there are various expressions of pain, there are also diverse grades of pleasure and well-being. While the righteous and harmonious life permits the householder to seek wealth by lawful means, without greed and longing, to get ease and pleasure for him or herself and do meritorious deeds, the recluse exercises a more stringent control over desires and wants and is more earnestly committed to the ideal of release from all suffering (nibbana). Both the life ideals of the householder as well as those of the recluse are highly critical of the life of pure sensuality devoid of any ethical constraints. A life of pure pleasure by its inner nature ends up in boredom and dissonance, and interferes with the healthy functioning of family and community life. The Buddha condemned pure hedonism on psychological and ethical grounds. The Buddha was also critical of some materialists who did not believe in an afterlife and thus supported a hedonistic lifestyle without any moral values.

The Buddha was critical of the way of pure sensuality and the way of self-mortification and considered his own way as the middle path.

(Source: De Silva, P. 'Buddhist Ethics' in Singer, P. (ed.)
A Companion to Ethics, Blackwell Publishing Ltd., 2001, Edexcel Anthology)

- 1 (a) Examine the argument and/or interpretation in the passage. (30)
- (b) Do you agree with the idea(s) expressed? Justify your point of view and discuss its implications for understanding religion and human experience. (20)

(Total for Question 1 = 50 marks)

Start your answer on Page 3.

Handwriting practice area with 25 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 20 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 25 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 20 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 20 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 20 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 25 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 20 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 25 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 20 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 25 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 25 horizontal dotted lines.

Handwriting practice area with 25 horizontal dotted lines.

TOTAL FOR PAPER 1C = 50 MARKS

