General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the first candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the last.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- There is no ceiling on achievement. All marks on the mark scheme should be used appropriately.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate’s response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification may be limited.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate’s response, the team leader must be consulted.
- Crossed out work should be marked UNLESS the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

AO2

Arguments for the statement:
- Creationists believe that every word in the Bible, including the account of Creation in Genesis, is the word of God, so must have happened exactly as the Bible says.
- The scientific theories, such as the Big Bang and Steady State theory are only ideas; they have never been proven so there is no reason to question the biblical account of Creation.
- For some Christians the sequence of creation in Genesis 1 is literally true even though they would interpret the days as eras; therefore it is true but can be interpreted symbolically.

Arguments against the statement:
- The Catechism teaches that the account of Creation has different sources and was placed at the beginning of the Bible to express the truth of God as the creator; so the account can be understood metaphorically.
- Some Christians think Genesis was never intended as a historical/scientific account of Creation and the theological truth is contained within its whole not in a point by point literal way.
- Most Catholics accept the scientific explanations and reject Genesis as literally true; so science explains how the universe came into being and the biblical account why it came into being.

Candidates who do not consider different viewpoints within the religious tradition or non-religious viewpoints (as instructed in the question) cannot achieve marks beyond Level 2.

| Level 1 | 1–3 | - Information/issues are identified and make superficial connections among a limited range of elements in the question, underpinned by isolated elements of understanding of religion and belief.
- Judgements are supported by generic arguments to produce a conclusion that is not fully justified. |
| Level 2 | 4–6 | - Superficial connections are made among many, but not all, of the elements in the question, underpinned by a limited understanding of religion and belief.
- Judgements of a limited range of elements in the question are made. Judgements are supported by an attempt to appraise evidence, much of which may be superficial, leading to a conclusion that is not fully justified. |
| Level 3 | 7–9 | - Deconstructs religious information/issues, leading to coherent and logical chains of reasoning that consider different viewpoints. These are underpinned by an accurate understanding of religion and belief. Connections are made among many, but not all, of the elements in the question.
- Constructs coherent and reasoned judgements of many, but not all, of the elements in the question. Judgements are supported by the appraisal of evidence, some of which may be superficial, leading to a partially justified conclusion. |
| Level 4 | 10–12 | - Critically deconstructs religious information/issues, leading to coherent and logical chains of reasoning that consider different viewpoints. These are underpinned by a sustained, accurate and thorough understanding of religion and belief. Connections are made among the full range of elements in the question.
- Constructs coherent and reasoned judgements of the full range of elements in the question. Judgements are fully supported by the comprehensive appraisal of evidence, leading to a fully justified conclusion. |

- Candidates use rules of grammar with general control of meaning overall.

- Punishing the criminal ensures that justice is served (1) but the punishment needs to be proportional to the crime (1) this is shown in the Parable of the Watchful Servants (Luke 12:35-48) (1)
- Catholics should not be judgemental in their attitude (1) as Jesus taught: ‘Why do you look at the speck of sawdust in your brother’s eye and pay no attention to the plank in your own eye?’ (Matthew 7:3) (1) so for many Catholics the punishment should help to reform criminals (1)
- The punishment should not be an act of revenge (1) but to protect the common good (Catechism of the Catholic Church 2266) (1) and should contribute to changing criminals so they do not commit the crime again (1).

AO2

Arguments for the statement:
- As the death penalty was advocated in biblical times for certain crimes such as murder; ‘Whoever sheds human blood, by human his own is to be shed’ (Genesis 9:6); surely it is right for society today
- Using situation ethics it can be seen to be the most loving thing for the whole of society for a serial killer to receive the death penalty, so no one else is murdered; thus showing love to all in society
- St Paul taught that governments act with God’s authority (Romans 13:1-2) and so if they decide what is needed for the protection of society then citizens should agree; this could include the death penalty.

Arguments against the statement:
- Pope John Paul II stated the circumstances requiring execution are practically non-existent as society today has other ways of preventing the crime rather than resorting to the death penalty
- There should be no exceptions to the commandment to not kill, as all human life is sacred no matter what the person has done; so all have a fundamental right to life
- If society is to be protected it should try better to reform the person rather than seek revenge, through the death penalty; Jesus taught that this is wrong, he said ‘turn the other cheek’ rather than take a life for a life.
